

Kyle Rozsmann – Teaching Professional

Originally growing up a hockey player in Edmonton, Alberta, Kyle fell in love with golf around the age of ten, introduced by his dad, grandpa and uncles.

After moving to North Vancouver Kyle started working in the backshop at Seymour Golf and Country Club at 15, and was a generally self-taught scratch handicap by 17.

From there, Kyle competed in a multitude of junior and amateur events at both the provincial and national level, and played 3 seasons at Capilano University.

Since turning professional in 2017, Kyle has taught over 3000 lessons and delivered over 400 Club fittings to students of absolutely every age, demographic, and playing ability.
